Fr. Jeremiah Munyoki:

The new incoming priest has begun his priestly obligations on Friday September 1st 2023. Local Parishioners and Parish groups will need to discuss with him future activities in all areas of the Parish in Bundoran and St. Joseph's, the Rock, Ballyshannon. It will take some time for him to understand local activity and for Parishioners to meet him. The past will change in the future and Parishioners must appreciate such activity and help where possible.

Cemetery Activity:

Due to the small amount of cemetery area in Bundoran and St. Joseph's Ballyshannon, it is important for everyone to understand that graves should only be allocated to Parishioners, who have died. Allocating graves when not necessary lessens the amount of grave space in all Cemeteries and providing local grave space for non residents of the Parish also places pressure on local grave space. It might be of interest to Bundoran that the original Map preparing St. Ninnidh's Cemetery has been discovered in the Parish Office. It is dated 1947 with approximately twelve graves already used. The map was lined as far as the end of the present side walls. That area has now greatly increased. Future sensible attention is necessary.

Parish History:

The retiring Parish Priest has spent the past six weeks assessing the paperwork available in the Parish Office, which is associated with the past one hundred years. While much of the paperwork is of a private nature, all is of a very historical nature and is very important to retain. Personal information may not be allocated to public requests but must be retained at the Office. The request has been made in days gone by for any general historical Parish information to be shared with the Parish Office so that in days to come perhaps it might be possible to present a book containing general historical information. Photographs would be of great value to those who might be putting such a book together. It would be sad for such important information not to be shared as Parish history would decline.
